| Terrain description | Terrain type: Gotlandic forest with mainly sparsely-growing conifers. Parts of the area are open ground (barren rocky ground with some junipers), easy to run through, with low marshy spots, at times filled with water, some covered with sedge, a rush-like grass, which is difficult to penetrate. The area is crossed by a few larger paths. In the south-eastern part of the area lies one of the largest stone quarries on Gotland (File Hajdar), very evident in the terrain with a road and smaller fence marking the barrier for the edge about 10 meters away. Crossing the road and fence is strictly forbidden as it is highly dangerous with risk for fatalities. Topography: Very slight hills. Height difference in the area is about 30 metres. Runability: Mainly good runability and visibility but in certain parts moderate visibility since the vegetation is more dominated by juniper bushes which is not indicated since runability is still good. Closest to the area, runability is limited by an area of dense juniper and blackthorn bushes which is also indicated on the map. |
